Scary Autumn Things

By: @alma.o.o

In Autumn time many scary things lurk behind the corner. After the warm and sunny summer you might feel carefree and do not pay enough attention. In this article I'd like to help you think ahead so you can be prepared.

Rainy days, dark evenings, cosy blankets, tea and candlelight. One of the first things mentioned when you talk about Autumn, right? There are things that can go wrong and turn scary! For example, if you pour hot tea on yourself, you get wet and sticky. That usually calls for a bath time, which often is not pleasurable for plushies. Even worse, if you pour hot water on your humans, they might get a burn which is very painful and might lead to scarring. Therefore, always make sure to pour hot water from the kettle very carefully and then keep the mug safely balanced on a table.

Stay safe with the candles as well. Burn them only under supervision and away from anything that could catch fire. Plushies are often made of synthetic fibres which can easily melt and turn nastily black. The big scary thing is that your home could burn! Remind your human to move the blankets and curtains so that they do not go near the flame, and blow the candles when you leave the room for more than a bathroom break. Also, remove any potentially hazardous decorations that are sometimes wrapped around decorative candles. In modern times I can recommend LED candles and fairy lights to be used instead of live flame.

It can be scary outdoors as well. Your humans, while carrying you in their bags or pockets could trip or slip and fall. Have them invest in proper and safe outdoor shoes that do not go slippery in wet or icy conditions. Dark clothing make humans less visible in dark conditions. Remind them they are not wizards, unfortunately, and that it is wiser to be seen to avoid collisions between pedestrians, bikers and drivers. It is also advised to wear some reflective accessories, so car drivers can spot them from a distance and take their time to consider all the sides of running over them.

I hope these tips help you keep yourselves and your humans safe in the cold and dark time of the year.

Love,

Alma

Hello Everyone,

Up here in the North, things are beginning to turn cold and wet and dark and to get you in the mood for those long dark nights, our buddy, Alma has written a very useful article for you - just don't get too scared. Lighter times for those of you down South - hooray - and we are so enjoying your blossom photos.

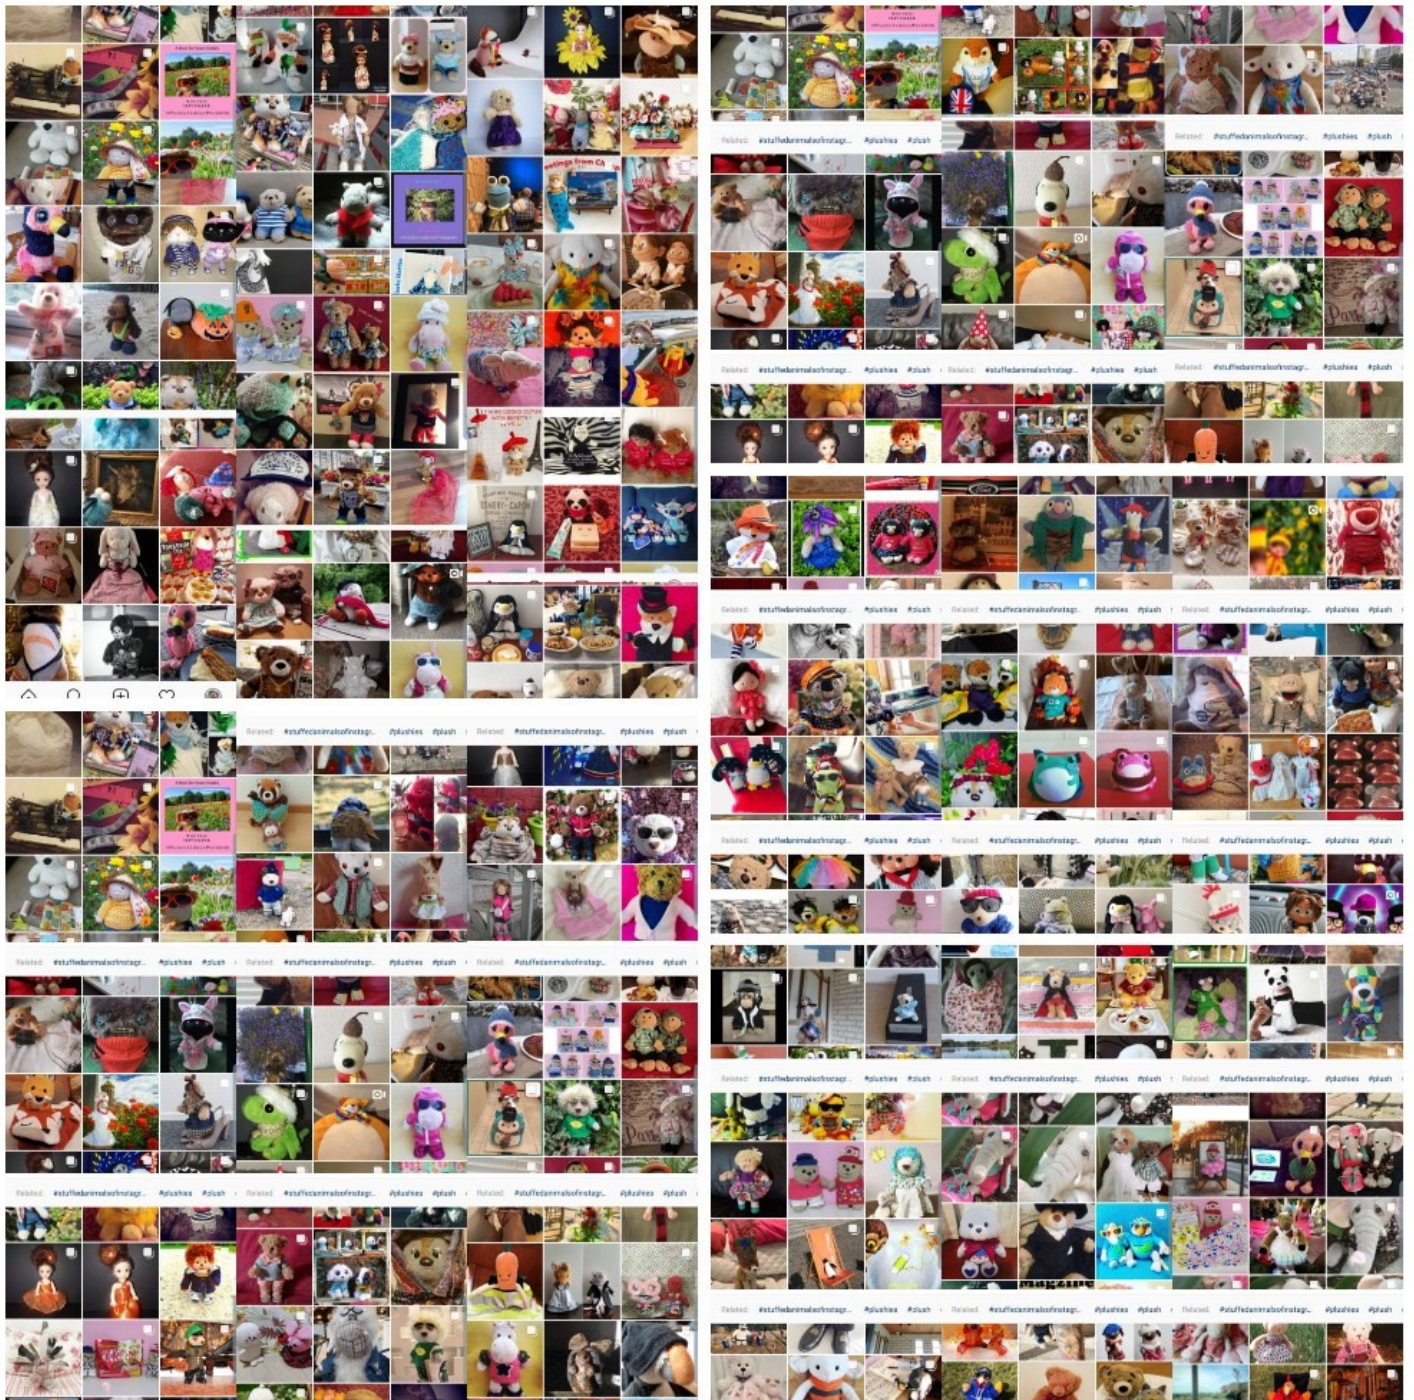

We also want to say a huge thank you to all of you 188 of you who participated in #plushiefashionweek2019 - such incredible style and fun! We've done a collage for you - can you spot yourself or your favourite shows?

Sending you big hugs, from Topsy x
